CORRESPONDENCE.

The Infallible Man of Molokai.

ED. THE INDEPENDENT:—

I now write a few statements about the Molokai ranch, a public trust, in charge of Meyer, and when you have read this letter, you will believe, "That Meyer ought to sweep his own house first, and not go after other people," which he has always been doing, but not so much since I have been writing him up. Meyer talks and writes about the faults of the deputy sheriff, the police, the judge, the doctor, the tax assessor and the teachers, and only a few weeks ago he was after the Kamalo postmaster, but Meyer had to pay all the same. You can't but wonder that people up here dislike Meyer when he is always interfering.

At Kaunakakai, the houses of the ranch are in a bad state, the fine grass-house of the King has had all the grass eaten away and nothing is left, but the roof and wooden studs. The King's frame house near by is all rotten, the steps, under pinning of the laui, posts shingles off, windows broken, no paint, no nails ever used, everything going to ruin. It is in this building where the fake Postal office holds out.

A little maka are good boilers, under no cover and going to ruin. These things may or may not be O. K., but the people talk of it all the time. It's shameful neglect.

The ranch itself produces rocks, bare soil, kiawe trees, sheep, cattle, deer and goats. The rocks, bare soil and kiawe trees are increasing, as well as the deer and goat, but there is not much money in these things, and the Trustees don't seem to find it out. The sheep (the kanakas who shear them tell me) are only some 14,000—when the ranch had a good shepherd there were over 20,000 sheep. The wool shipped last month was 78 bales, last year it was 98 bales. Something is wrong.

Years back the ranch had many thousands of cattle I hear to-day there are not 3500 heads and the stock is getting less, but not from the sale of cattle. Meyer has gates on the Government road, and drinking troughs in the middle of the road near the Hoolihua homesteads and when the wild cattle are struggling and fighting for water, a man dare not go on foot, or he would be horned.

All the statements I know to be facts everybody talks of them, but the great Meyer has held office since the time of the ark, does as he pleases is omnipotent, unimpeachable and infallible I am willing to take back all my statements when the infallible Meyer proves them to be untrue.

W. T. CALLOW.

Waialua, Molokai, April 8th, 1897.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Goddard lectures were given last night before an audience which was thoroughly in accord with the lecturer and listened to his splendid descriptions of the art of brewing "Rainier" beer. He remarked that only the best of hops and malt were used thus insuring a healthful beverage. On tap or in bottles at the Criterion saloon.

A New Deal.

Mr. Charles W. Andrew and Mr. Archibald Turner have been placed in charge of the Empire Saloon, and expect to meet their numerous friends at their new stamping grounds. Both gentlemen are well and favorably known here and will undoubtedly cause a rush to the old tavern, the Empire.

Buffalo Beer has proved its immense popularity at the Royal, Pacific and Cosmopolitan Saloons. The celebrated Pabst is also retained there in draft or in bottle. The interchangeable check system that has proved such a convenience to the patrons of these popular resorts is also in vogue.
